THE GREAT STRIKE.

The London dock laborers' strike—the greatest one in our time—has come to an end, and the men are now at work again. And still all is not over yet; for it appears to be agreed that this vast disturbance must leave behind it consequences which will be felt for long after this. The men have lost a month's work, with all that this implies to men to whose families one day's idleness brings suffering; the loss to London export trade is two millions sterling: while there is a further loss of a million to holders of dock shares and debentures. The opinion is further expressed that the injury to London shipping interest is permanent, and that the trade of the port will never get over the shake it has just received. Still it is considered that most of what London loses, other British ports will gain. One thing is to be noted—each side goes out of the contest resolved apparently that it will after this trust as little to chance as possible, but will be prepared for future coutingencies as far as union and organization can go. It is said that the shipowners, who are certainly a party interested, will insist upon having something to say about future arrangements. For the dockowners have been at war, not with the laborers only, but with the shipowners as well.

By the agreement the men are to get six pence an hour, twelve hours to be a full day, and the advance is to begin November 4th. The men have notoriously been badly cheated in time past by the "sweating" system, by contractors; but now they are to be paid by piecework, which is to be given out by the companies themselves direct to the laborers. This ought to be an important means of preventing oppression and dishonesty. The cry now is that increasing the men's pay will so increase the cost of loading and unloading that it will drive trade away from London. To which it is replied that if this be so, it must be because the dock proprietors are trying to pay dividends on fictitious capital, and to draw interest on capital that they have never really invested. Which is a kind of business that others besides dock proprietors have been known to try before now.

The strikers are being complimented on the good order they have maintained; and their leader, Burns, who is a Socialist, finds himself today one of the most prominent men in England. Owing to the heavy subscriptions coming in from England and Australia, there will be, after paying the ten thousand dollars a day or thereabouts needed to support the strike, a large overplus or reserve fund left on hand, and at the disposal of the men's union. This overplus was twelve thousand sterling a week ago, and more has been coming in since. In one day 4,500 pounds sterling was received from Australia.

One thing the laborers are getting blamed for, and deservedly, we should say. They cabled to the labor unions in Australia, asking them to refuse help to ships arriving out there that had been loaded in London by "blackleg" or non union laborers. Now it had been solemnly agreed upon, in closing the strike, that the employers should not refuse work to any man because he had taken part in the strike, also that they should be free to keep on non-union men whom they had taken on during its continuance. In other words, both sides were to let "bygones be bygones," and there were to be no revenges. Now it will be said that the men are keeping up the war yet, even in far-off Australia. But surely we may look for it that the cable will bring us an answer to this ere long.

BEHRING SEA CLAIMS.

The Manchester Examiner and Times, in its colonial notes by W. H. Newett, in speaking of the Behring Sea difficulty, says in view of the great excitement in Canada caused by the recent seizure of Canadian sealers by United States cruisers in Behring Sea it is interesting to note that Mr. R. Raynor, of Salem, Mass., shows how unfounded is the claim of the United States Government to jurisdiction over Behring Sea. International law recognizes the claims of individual nations to jurisdiction and dominion over land-locked or inland seas and waters, which, in the words of Vattel's maxim, are "entirely surrounded by the territory of the nation claiming jurisdiction, and which has no other communication with the ocean than by a channel of which that nation may take possession." The American argument is that at the time the United States acquired the territory of Alaska, the waters of the Behring Sea washed only the shores of Russian territory, and that as the United States acquired Alaska from Russia, it also acquired Russia's right over the adjacent waters. It has often been pointed out that both Great Britain and the United States successfully opposed Russia's claims to sole jurisdiction over the North Pacific, including Behring Sea, and that both these nations secured treaties with Russia, by which she abandoned all such claims, and that, therefore, she could not have ceded to the United States what she herself did not possess. But Mr. Rayner argues that, even allowing Russia's claim, the cession of the American coast of Behring Sea to the United States would make Behring Sea an open sea to all nations, for it would then have passed out of the list of those seas which are entirely surrounded by the territory of the nation claiming jurisdiction. As Russia ceded only a part of the shores of Behring Sea to the United States, they are not in possession of all the shores, and consequently they cannot claim jurisdiction over Behring Sea by the doctrine of the first proposition of Vattel's maxim. The second condition requisite to jurisdiction set forth in this law, that of absence of communication with the ocean except by a channel which could be taken possession of, is still more apparently non-existent. According to the official charts of the United States Government, the shortest distances between the islands which are supposed to separate Behring Sea from the Pacific Ocean are as follows: Between Alton and Copper Island, 183 miles; Copper Island and Behring Island, 27 miles; Behring Island and Kamtschaka, 93 miles. The narrowest of these three channels could, perhaps, be taken possession of by the strongest maritime nation in the world; but all three together would be beyond the united capacity of all the nations of the world. The possession of such open sea spaces was never contemplated by international law. Canada could close the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Hudson's Bay, and a score of other large bays on both sides of the continent to American vessels, if such claims could be upheld by international laws, instead of which, in the very last treaty negotiated, Canada was willing to allow American fishermen to navigate the Straits of Canso, which are only a mile and a half wide. A marine league of three miles from shore, or bays with entrance seven miles wide, are recognized by law. According to international law, therefore, neither Russia nor the United States, nor both together, can claim jurisdiction over Behring Sea. Until twenty-five years ago there were no waters known as Behring Sea. All the charts and maps and gazetteers printed before 1870 show and speak of the Pacific Ocean as stretching from Behring Straits, and Behring Sea, when mentioned in modern works, is described as part of the Pacific Ocean. The absurdity of the United States claim to jurisdiction is shown by a reference to the fact, that if Behring Sea is to be declared a closed sea, the United States will have to claim possession of a stretch of the Pacific Ocean 900 miles long, and stretching over 30 degrees of latitude.

TERRITORIAL NEWS

EDMONTON.

From the Bulletin, Sept. 14.

Geese were seen flying southward on Wednesday.

The Indians are said to predict a wet and changeable fall.

Moore & Macdowall have erected a large shed in which to pile their dressed lumber.

A. Taylor has been informed of his appointment as deputy clerk of the supreme court. Instructions will arrive on Mondays mail.

The investigation into the cause of the fire, which destroyed the police stables on Wednesday night last, was opened by Supt. Griesbach on Monday and resumed on Thursday, but the cause of the fire remains unknown.

The curling and skating rink to be built by the investment society, will be located on five lots on First street, on the Sinclair estate. Tenders are asked for the grading of the site, and work will commence on the building very shortly.

The snow fall of last Tuesday was felt at Victoria and Saddle Lake to about the same extent as at Edmonton. It was lighter at Onion lake. Snow also fell at Victoria on Friday morning.

REGINA.

From the Journal, Sept. 19.

C. J. Atkinson is expected to return next Wednesday.

The average yield of grain in this neighborhood is much higher than was expected.

After a few days of cold weather, summer appears to return to us once more.

The Governor-General and suite are expected to arrive in Regina on Oct. 3rd, and leave on the 5th.

The non-commissioned officers and constables of "Depot" Division intend giving a dance at the barracks some time next week.

W. Miles, of the Queen's Hotel, one of Regina's pioneer citizens, died on Monday morning. He had been suffering from an affection of the lungs for several years.

The first of a series of Gospel Temperance meetings was held in the Methodist church on Sunday evening, at the close of the service; the Rev. Mr. Harrison in the chair. These meetings are a combined effort of the Methodist and Presbyterian congregations to influence public sentiment in favor of temperance legislation. Among the speakers was Mr. J. J. Campbell, who in a forcible speech, showed the terrible power the demon of drink has when once awakened. He gave a leaf from his experience in Saskatchewan as a magistrate, stating that many of the early settlers had gone there to escape the evil surroundings of liquor, but the curse had soon followed them. He showed too the necessity of the laity taking hold of this matter, as ministers words are too often considered to be perfunctory. After singing and pronouncing the benediction, the meeting closed.

CALGARY.

From the Tribune, Sept. 18.

The chief gave a free lift on one of the express waggons yesterday afternoon to an Indian who was suffering from too much "sun." He don't seem to object much to the chief kneeling on his chest. He was liberated this morning.

D. McCarthy, who was firing a steam thresher near Swift Current, sustained a painful accident about a week ago from the steam of the thresher, by which he loses the power of his left arm for a time.

Jennie Stockton was charged before Capt. McIlree with having abandoned her child on the 4th inst. by sending it to Morley in charge of a half-breed woman. The prisoner, having nothing to say, was committed for trial.

The Indian summer has now started and we may look forward to anything from one to three months of this glorious weather. The Rockies stood out with great distinctness from the sky this morning.

The ladies of the Methodist church are already making arrangements for their annual dinner on Thanksgiving Day.

A very sad accident occurred at Irvine station, on the C.P.R., on Thursday last by which a young brakeman lost his life. He was passing from one car to another, fell between and was run over, sustaining injuries which resulted in his death shortly afterwards. Deceased was a brother-in-law of Conductor Barreau, and his father was killed in Winnipeg, about a year ago, by a switch engine.

FORT MACLEOD.

From the Gazette, Sept. 19.

Mounted drill began at the barracks last Monday. It goes on both morning and evening.

A meeting of Pincher Creek stock association was to have been held this week. The fall round-up begins at once.

Yesterday was a scorcher, and to-day promises to be even worse. It was 114° in the sun and 85° in the shade at two o'clock yesterday.

While riding last week, Mrs. Cowdry's horse fell with her. She was somewhat bruised, but fortunately not seriously injured. Col. McLeod also had a fall from his horse, last week.

It is announced that Amos Rowe, Dominion Land Agent at Calgary, is aspiring for political honors, and that he will be an Equal Rights candidate at the next general election. It is not staetd what constituency he will select, but we presume it will be Alberta.

On Wednesday evening some miscreant relieved Corp. Eales of his watch, at the barracks, which was presented to him by a comrade some time ago. No clue has been discovered as to the identity of the thief, and persons in town are warned not to buy the article in question.

LETHBRIDGE.

From the News, Sept. 18.

Tenders are asked for in this issue for the hauling of stone for filling the piers of the bridge to be erected here.

Wm. Pearce, superintendent of mines, came in from Calgary on Monday night's train and went on to Macleod yesterday.

The contractors for the bridge over the river at this place are only waiting the arrival of the engineer to commence operations. Mr. Guion, of Winnipeg, has been ordered to proceed here and is expected to arrive some time this week. Work will be commenced as soon after his arrival as possible.

A meeting of the citizens was held in the Lethbridge house on Thursday evening last, Mr. F. Champness in the chair. A committee consisting of Messrs. McCaul, Galliher and Magrath, was appointed to draft an address to be presented to the Governor-General on his arrival at Lethbridge. The question of incorporation was brought up also, and after a general discussion of the question a committee was appointed to report to the citizens the advantages or otherwise of incorporating the town of Lethbridge.

QU'APPELLE.

From the Vidette, Sept. 19.

Several prairie fires were burning in this district yesterday.

Insp. Constantine has been in town a day or two this week, having been called in to look after some liquor cases and adjust them.

The work of overhauling and making additions to the machinery of the Qu'Appelle Valley Mills have been nearly completed. It is expected that the mill will be in running order again about the beginning of next week. This mill has had a very successful season this year, only having been shut down for repairs some three or four weeks.

From the Progress, Aug. 23.

More tanks for protection in case of fire are being put down by the road overseer in town with the aid of statute labor.

MEDICINE HAT.

From the Times, Sept. 19.

The weather for the last three days has been extremely warm for this season.

Potato digging is general this week. The yield is not so heavy as last year but the quality is excelled.

Veterinary-Surgeon Pringle, N. W. M. P., of Maple Creek, was married last week to Miss Marshne, formerly of this town.

Fifty-five Chinamen from New York and other eastern American cities were on No. 1, on Tuesday, en route to their native land.

New steps have been placed on the south side of the depot platform, connecting it with the cross-walks over South Railway street.

Mr. Robertson, of Barrie, Ont., arrived from the east last Friday. He left on Monday for Cypress Hills, to secure specimens of prairie antelope.

LOCAL NEWS.

Buy your Flannels, Blankets and Comforters from F. C. Baker.

Large consignments of imported goods received daily at T. O. Davis'.

Threshing operations are being pushed forward throughout this district.

Insp. Norman, paid an official visit to the South Branch detachments this week.

Wm. Tait and J. M. Campbell spent a couple of days at the South Branch this week inspecting their bands of cattle.

C. R. Stovel, dentist, who has been practising in town for the last month or so, leaves for Winnipeg on the 15th inst.

Thompson and Armstrong returned to town on Wednesday. They have been decorating the Agency buildings at Duck Lake and Batoche.

Capt. Hoey, M.L.A., accompanied by Mrs. Hoey arrived in town to-day. The captain has been visiting his constituents before leaving for Regina next week.

Wm. Shannon has just received a train load of the cheapest boots, shoes, mitts, moccasins and other foot and hand wear, that was ever before brought to town.

Reginald B. Beatty, Indian trader at Stoney Creek, and one of the oldest residents in that settlement, spent several days in town this week purchasing goods for his winter trade.

Posters are out around town and an advertisement appears in another column asking for tenders, to be received up to noon on Monday, 14th inst, at the Orderly Room, for 550 bushels of potatoes for the Mounted Police here.

Messrs. Plaxton and Mitchell, M'sL.A. for Prince Albert and Batoche, respectively, made a short tour of observation and inspection of the Sandy Lake districts last week. They returned by way of Duck Lake on Saturday.

John Wymerskirch entertained a large number of friends at the opening of the Gable House on Thursday evening. Hop beer, soft drinks and conviviality flowed until closing time, when everyone present expressed themselves as well pleased with the evening's entertainment and hoped that John would prosper in his new undertaking. He hopes to receive a call from his old friends so as to give them an A 1 cigar, a glass of good beer and a quiet game of pool or billiards.

COMMUNICATIONS.

QUERY.

To the Editor of the Times.

SIR,—Will the trustees of the Prince Albert Catholic School District No. 6 tell the public through the columns of your paper where this school is that has seventy scholars attending and employs three 3rd class provisional teachers, as shown in the report of the Board of Education, page 105, for 1888, for the Northwest Territories. Also will they please give the names of their teachers. By so doing they will oblige

A RATEPAYER.

DUCK LAKE.

Mr. Knox, of your town, is working here.

H. Mirchell, M.L.A., leaves on the 10th inst. to attend a meeting of the Legislative Assembly.

Surveyors of the Q. L.L. and Saskatchewan railway are within five miles of this town.

Treaty payments will be made on Tuesday, the 7th. All the reserves will be paid on the same day,

Indian Agent Finlayson is laid up with inflammation of the lungs, but is a little on the mend now. A. J. McNeill has gone to Snake Plain to relieve him.

The second son of Mr. John McKenzie is laid up with inflammation of the lungs.

A number have returned from railway construction, owing to the scarcity of water. They claim their horses could only get water once in 24 hours.

Dr. Stewart returned on Monday from Snake Plain and other points north. He reports little or no sickness, the principal cases being heavy colds.

Several hunters have returned from a trip north, and brought in considerable fur. They say fur will be scarce again this year. Muskrats are getting more plentiful.

A drug store will be opened here shortly.

A number of farmers are taking their potatoes and turnips to Battleford. The former is worth $2 a bushel there.

CLARK'S CROSSING.

CLARK'S CROSSING, Oct. 5.—The survey of the Long Lake & Prince Albert Railway was completed to Saskatoon on Wednesday, and the bridge site located. The road will cross the river about 500 yards north of the old ferry landing, but before approaching the bridge the track will skirt the river bank for some distance thus avoiding the present town site. On the west side of the river, the road will take as direct a course for Prince Albert as possible, passing Clark's Crossing between five and six miles from the river. The surveyors are now at work on the west side and will push on through to Prince Albert this season.

Warren Finlayson, telegraph operator, shot a goose here yesterday. He feels three inches taller in consequence.

SASKATOON.

The fourth annual exhibition of the Central Saskatchewan Agricultural Society was held here on Wednesday, and passed off very satisfactorily. The exhibits, though not so large as last year, except in the ladies' department, were varied, and in many cases good, the samples of wheat shown being particularly so. Messrs. Stobart & Sons special prizes for red fyfe wheat, oats and barley went to Mr. Harry Smith, of West Side, whose exhibits in this class were most admirable. The competition for Mr. H. Mitchell's prize for best butter was very keen, the prize going to Mrs. Chas. Lute, of Clark's Crossing. In garden produce, Messrs. Copland, Saskatoon; McIntosh, Fish Creek; and J. D. Caswell, Clark's Crossing, carried off most of the prizes; while in cattle and field products Caswell Bros. were the leading and most successful exhibitors. There was a large show of horses in the different sections, but none of them could be classed as anything better than ordinary. Some very handsome specimens of ladies' handiwork in cushions, mats, tidies, etc., adorned the room set apart for that class of work and a good deal of difficulty was experienced by the judges in reaching a decision, where all looked so remarkably pretty. Space prevents a more detailed account of what may justly be termed a very successful fair.

Angus Thompson, who is on his way in from Troy, has, we understand, some thirty head of cattle, among which are three thoroughbred Durham bulls, which will be a valuable acquisition to the stock interests of this district.
